

Flexible Work Arrangement Policy

Principles and requirements for flexible work arrangements

Document No.	HR-POL-WFH-001	Policy Code	POL-WFH-001
Version	1.0	Classification	Internal
Effective Date	1 January 2026	Review / Expiry	31 December 2026
Policy Owner	Human Resources	Approving Authority	Head of Human Resources

Policy Statement

This policy establishes the Company's standards and requirements for the matters covered by this document. Employees and managers are expected to comply with these requirements and to provide complete and accurate information when submitting or reviewing requests and claims.

Document Control

Version	Effective Date	Change Summary	Status
1.0	1 January 2026	Initial policy issuance for the 2026 policy year.	Active

Approval

Policy Owner	Human Resources
Approving Authority	Head of Human Resources
Approval Status	Approved for use effective 1 January 2026.

1. Purpose

This policy provides a consistent framework for flexible work arrangements, including hybrid and remote working, while maintaining operational effectiveness, collaboration, information security, employee accountability, and customer service standards.

2. Scope

This policy applies to employees whose roles and working arrangements are suitable for flexible working. A flexible arrangement is a work arrangement approved by the Company and does not change the employee's employment status, compensation, or fundamental employment obligations.

3. Eligibility and Business Need

Flexible work eligibility depends on the nature of the employee's role, operational requirements, service coverage, information-security considerations, performance, and the needs of the relevant team. Flexible work is not an automatic entitlement.

Roles that require physical presence, direct customer or operational support, secure on-site activities, or access to location-specific resources may require regular or full-time on-site attendance.

4. Working Hours and Availability

Employees working under a flexible arrangement remain responsible for their agreed working hours and availability. Employees must remain reachable through approved communication channels and attend required meetings and on-site activities.

5. Performance and Accountability

Flexible working does not reduce performance expectations. Employees are expected to meet agreed objectives, deadlines, service standards, and collaboration requirements regardless of work location.

6. Information Security and Confidentiality

- Company information must be protected from unauthorized access, disclosure, or loss.
- Company systems and devices must be used in accordance with information-security requirements.
- Employees must take reasonable steps to prevent confidential discussions and documents from being visible or audible to unauthorized persons.

7. Work Environment

Employees are responsible for maintaining a safe, appropriate, and reasonably effective work environment when working remotely. The employee must promptly report any circumstance that materially interferes with the ability to perform assigned duties.

8. Manager Responsibilities

Managers are responsible for determining whether a flexible arrangement is compatible with the employee's role and team requirements. Managers may establish reasonable on-site attendance requirements where necessary to maintain service levels, collaboration, or business continuity.

9. Changes and Termination of an Arrangement

A flexible arrangement may be reviewed, modified, or discontinued where business requirements, performance, role responsibilities, security concerns, or operational needs change. The Company will communicate material changes through the applicable HR process.

10. Human Resources

Human Resources is responsible for interpreting this policy, supporting managers and employees, and handling exceptions or disputes. Where a separate HR procedure applies to a particular flexible-work arrangement, that procedure governs the administrative process.

11. Policy Administration

Flexible work arrangements are subject to business requirements and are not intended to create a permanent right to work remotely. This policy should be read together with applicable employment, information-security, attendance, and performance requirements.